

Topics in Animal Welfare ANSC 550

This course involves readings and critical examination of key topics in the field of Animal Welfare. Students are responsible for leading discussions on topics of their choice. Class meets for approximately 3 hours per week. Evaluation is based on class leadership, participation, presentations, and two assignments (an essay and a lay article or web site).

Choice of topics will be based on the interests of the participants, but previous topics have included the following:

- Welfare of farmed fish
- Animals in film
- Niche marketing of welfare
- Veal calf production
- Welfare issues in developing countries
- Links between animal cruelty and domestic violence

Offered by:

Drs. Dan Weary and David Fraser
Animal Welfare Program
Faculty of Land and Food Systems, UBC

Offered: Fall term

Registration: Register in ANSC 550 (3 credits).

Prerequisites: Permission of instructors.

For further information, please contact: Dr. Dan Weary

Email: danweary@interchange.ubc.ca

Tel.: (604) 822-3954